

Relief Printing Press – Information Sheet / Order Form

Printing presses comes in many shapes and forms and there are different presses suitable for the different techniques we teach at Magenta Sky. The main purpose of a press is to allow printmakers to take even, good quality prints and apply the correct type of pressure for transferring ink from a plate or block onto the paper.

The relief press described below is suitable for relief printmaking such as wood cut and lino cut and is a great way to take the next step forward in developing your home studio and taking your relief printing further.

About The Relief Press

This press was developed from a press seen at Michael Carlos workshop in Suffolk. He designed the press and they are produced by a company called Baker Fabrication based in Cambridgeshire. Magenta Sky have been given exclusive ability to promote and sell these presses online to students, professional artists and anyone interested in relief printing!!

- Low cost, lightweight portable press
